

A Learn-About Book

Disney
Winnie the Pooh

Pooh and Eeyore

Friends Collection

Copyright © 2008 Disney Enterprises, Inc.
Based on the "Winnie the Pooh" works, by A.A. Milne and E.H. Shepard.
All rights reserved.
Published by Studio Mouse,
an imprint of Trudy Corporation, Norwalk, Connecticut.

Dear Parents:

This journey of learning and discovery is so much more fun when you have the friendly characters from the Hundred-Acre Wood along. As your child grows, well-developed social skills and interpersonal relationships are just as important as scholastic achievement. In this charming story, Pooh and his friends provide children with role models for positive social interactions. Through the magic of Disney, your child will learn how special friendship can be!

First Edition 2004
10 9 8
Printed in China

Disney
Winnie the Pooh
Pooh and Eeyore

Eeyore is feeling very sad today. He's lost his tail!

Eeyore looks up and sees Pooh.
“Hello,” says Pooh.
Eeyore doesn’t answer.

"What's the matter, Eeyore?" asks Pooh.
"I've lost my tail — again,"
says Eeyore.

Pooh thinks very hard.
He wants to help Eeyore.
“We’ll all help you find your tail!” says Pooh.

Pooh goes on his way to gather all his friends.

Pooh asks everyone to help find Eeyore's tail.
Piglet, Tigger, Rabbit, Owl, Kanga, and Roo all begin to look!

Pooh leads everyone back to the spot where Eeyore lost his tail.

He sees Eeyore — with his tail!

"Eeyore, you found it!"
says Pooh.
"Kind of you to notice,"
says Eeyore.

Pooh is very confused!
The friends are all here but Eeyore has already found his tail.

"What should we do
now?" he says.

Tigger says, "I have a tiggerific idea! Let's have a bouncing contest."

After the contest, Rabbit says, "Let's work
in my garden."

"Now let's read a story," says Owl, pulling out a book.

Roo wants to play hide-and-seek.

"Let's go back to my house for some homemade cookies," offers Kanga. "Hooray!" cries everyone.

When the sun sets after a wonderful day, Pooh walks Eeyore home.
“Eeyore, I’m glad that you’re my friend,”
says Pooh.

Gloomy old Eeyore feels very happy! He has his tail — but much more importantly, he has wonderful friends!

Follow
Winnie the Pooh

Pooh and Eeyore

Friends Collection

Eeyore is feeling sad and gloomy.
Join Pooh and all the friends from the Hundred-Acre Wood as they help to cheer him up.

It's a magical multimedia experience!
The lessons presented in this Learn-Aloud book from the Friends Collection are enhanced by a read-along CD and musical fun!

All New Knowledge
Connects Polysyllabic Words
Big, Not Big, Not Little

© 2005 Disney Enterprises, Inc.
Based on the "Winnie the Pooh" works by A.A. Milne, and T.S. Sperry.
All rights reserved.
Published by Studio Mouse,
an imprint of Trade Corporation
501 Main Avenue, Norwalk, CT 06851-1325
Tel: 1-800-228-7539 Fax: 203-844-1374
www.studiomouse.com
Manufactured in China

$9.99 U.S. $2.99 CAN

ISBN-13: 978-1-59069-418-5
ISBN-10: 1-59069-418-X

TUN: MCO-20006261